

Efficient and timely computer relocation services using high quality processes and proven technology

How can we assist?

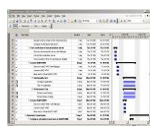

Relocations take place everyday due to business changes and restructures. A high proportion of these changes are problematic and can leave a business dysfunctional for several days due to technology related failures. What differentiates these problematic relocations from successful ones?

Not a lot actually. Relocations are not generally considered rocket science, however, they do require planning, communication, risk management and a skilled use of the available technology from experienced and dedicated resources.

Features of the service

We will relocate your computer systems ensuring you have complete visibility of progress whilst ensuring that no downtime occurs during business hours. This is achieved by:

1. Treating the move as a project taking into account all the physical and organisational steps that have to take place.
2. Providing access through a secure dedicated web site to show up-to-date relocation progress.
3. Providing you with the communication plan for your users, a detailed QA checklist and by coordinating the IT component of the relocation including third parties.

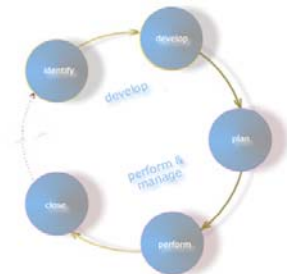

4. Offering support and assistance post move for requests that come up on the day.

Who have we relocated?

Several businesses have relocated their premises or commissioned new ones using our services. They vary from big organisations to medium size and small businesses. A list of companies and case studies are available for your due diligence.
